

PEOPLES SCHOOL FOR MARXIST-LENINIST STUDIES™

WREE Presents: Tender Comrade

PSMLS 9/2/2025

Context for today's film:

- Released in 1943, the film stars Ginger Rogers, Robert Ryan, Ruth Hussey, and Kim Hunter and was directed by Edward Dmytryk.
- Filmed during WWII, the movie portrays women on the home front living communally while their husbands are away at war.
- The film has an anti-fascist message and advocates for collectivism and democracy. It also shows the viewpoint of the women during the war, who had to work in the factories to aid the war effort and financially support themselves.
- The film was later used by the HUAC as evidence of Dalton Trumbo spreading communist propaganda. Trumbo was subsequently blacklisted.

"Wherever you go..."

you will always find the feeling of an arm that holds you... the warmth
of an eye that meets yours... the strength
of a person who is strong.

That's why a person like Ginger Rogers is so popular. She's not just a beautiful girl, she's a woman who is strong, who is confident, who is always willing to take on the world. She's
a woman who is strong, who is confident, who is always willing to take on the world.

Discussion

"Wherever you go...

you will always find the feeling of movement when you stand still. The weight of your legs lightens your feet. The strength of your knees gives you control.

They bring a great deal of trouble all their own lives and they're carrying big sins down to the people. It's not good, carrying an enormous commitment and obligation down to the people, making them feel that they have to work to produce something. Maybe we're not doing that, but we have some serious sins on our mind.

That's why a good man like John will always find a woman who will love him for the rest of his life. It's not just the way he looks, or the way he talks, or the way he acts. It's the way he makes you feel. It's the way he makes you feel like you're the only woman in the world.
